“ Our family gatherings always ended in a card game. Rich would wind up dealing Black Jack with him as the dealer. Our goal was to win his money, we never did, the cards were always in his favor. We all would laugh and wait till the next Hoilday! Rich always made me feel special, He was excited to get my phone calls. In the 80's his letters to me were at least 10 pages, they always made me laugh and I was anxious to read his news. I will miss him beyond belief. Peace to You
