“ Jeanette and Mark and family: He was only known as Wilson at our house. He and dad went fishing together with Butch Clayton for many many years. When my dad was home at the end of his time here on earth, your family came to visit and brought food and shakes. Jim will be missed by me, because I know what a special friend he was to my dad. God Bless.

Jeannette, Mark and Family: I was saddened to learn of Jim's passing. I have always respected and admired Jim for his courage of conviction, knowledge and his thoughtful and loving spirit as a husband, father, grandfather, employee and confidant. Jim's love a the outdoor life was inspiring and I enjoyed listening to his vivid descriptions of fishing and hunting adventures. He contributed greatly to my knowledge of agriculture in Michigan and I appreciated his support and guidance in our Cooperative's business relationships. I was and am proud to be able to call Jim a true friend. My deepest sympathy to the entire Wilson family.

“ It was a real shock to hear of Jim's sudden passing. It brings to mind the question, "What does tomorrow bring?". Jim and I worked for the same company for many years. He helped me many times to get thru difficult situations. We share your sadness Jeanette, Mark and families in the times ahead. I'm sure it will be a sad silence coming from that empty chair at the morning coffee time in Bangor.

“ In many ways he was my hero.

He lived big in small and deliberate ways. He made waves by speaking the truth as he knew it: a gift not all men are willing or able to do. He loved faithfully; something else not all men are able to do. He lived by principles that he was also willing to die for if need be. He was spiritual but not religious. He knew who he was and stuck to it regardless of what people thought. He was genuine and did not concern himself about being "politically" correct. He represented a generation that put things in perspective: God, Country, Family. Above all, family first. He trusted nature and respected and lived by her rules. He died owing no man nothing but willing to give anything. He loved a good time and could tell stories until you fell asleep, face down in you beer.

He was was my sister's husband.

And, in many ways, he was my hero.

“Sad to report the passing of Jim Wilson, Mark's dad and Nick and Marlee's grandpa and my second dad, Thursday, January 22 at their home. He ice fished in the morning and went in the garage to get some wood and Jeannette found him lying peacefully in the garage. He lived a fulfilled life of fishing, hunting, working and retiring early. He also loved watching kids and grand kids in their activities. He was a generous man with a huge heart ! He will be greatly missed by his family and many friends !

“So sorry for your loss. The morning coffee group will not be the same without all of Jim's memories of not only Bangor . But Southwestern Michigan. as well. He wasn't afraid to speak his mind and tell us what he thought especially when it came to guns and the government. May He rest in peace.
