“ Cindy, my heart is with you and your son. My heart breaks for you having to endure the unthinkable. I'll share a memory I'll keep from when we were in middle school. He taught me how to ski at Timber bridge when I mistakingly decided go with Cori. He took the time out of his day to hold my skis while going backwards while I snowplowed down the hill. He is a sweet guy and it showed me how people just have to do simple deeds to help another person struggling. I wouldn't have made it without his help. I hope God can somehow hold the void you feel without him. You two were his greatest gifts. Love is sent to you both.
