“ I got to know Stanley, gentle giant of a man that rarely complained, in the last 7 years of his life as his nurse care manager from Area Agency On Aging/Region IV. He would tell me that he could not remember yesterday but he could remember 40-50 years ago like it was yesterday. He couldn't speak about his wife without shedding a tear or two. He was proud of his service to his country and spoke about working for the City of South Haven. He greatly enjoyed his westerns and forget about talking to him if the history channel had anything about WWII playing during your visit. He worried about being a burden to his family and loved his dog who was the very best watch dog. He loved watching for the Amish children coming home from school. He knew I was a farm girl at heart and often asked about my family and my life on the farm. I enjoyed my visits and will miss him fondly. Michele Carlson, RN.
