“ I first met Weennonah's parents in 1960 when my parents moved next door and met Jim a year later. As Wennonah did not live close to them at that time, I don't think I met her until about 1968. I didn't see her again until I went to her home to visit her parents and then it was 2013 when I found out her brother had died and went to see her to find out how he had passed. She was unaware of his death and I searched for some time to find the details and visited Wennonah several times to share memories. She was a very special person. I'm sure she's missed by many meeting. Good stuff. I loved and respected her.
